

Wrong Estimates

U.S. Not Ready For Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's sudden move to wreck the summit conference Monday caught many administration leaders with wrong estimates about Soviet intentions. The grim episode demonstrated anew how tricky—and necessary—it is to guess right on what the unpredictable Soviet leader will do.

Searching for reasons, they speculated that tremendous pressure from Stalinist elements, plus the demands of Red China's leaders, forced Khrushchev to switch abruptly from a "coexistence" theme to a hard line.

Only a few hours before Eisenhower left for Paris Saturday, two top-ranking administration officials had predicted privately:

1. Khrushchev would stop short of canceling Eisenhower's good-will visit to the Soviet Union.
2. The Soviet boss would demand a halt to further spy flights but would not wreck the summit conference because of this issue.
3. Khrushchev's public denunciations of aerial spying were aimed at improving his bargaining position at the conference table on the critical issue of Berlin.

In the wake of Khrushchev's angry outburst Monday, these administration authorities appeared not only surprised but somewhat startled at the turn of events.

They maintained it was still too early to tell whether Khrushchev's

chials had predicted privately:

1. Khrushchev would stop short of canceling Eisenhower's good-will visit to the Soviet Union.

2. The Soviet boss would demand a halt to further spy flights but would not wreck the summit conference because of this issue.

3. Khrushchev's public denunciations of aerial spying were aimed at improving his bargaining position at the conference table on the critical issue of Berlin.

In the wake of Khrushchev's angry outburst Monday, these administration authorities appeared not only surprised but somewhat startled at the turn of events.

They maintained it was still too early to tell whether Khrushchev's bitter onslaught sets international relations back to the cold war period of frequent exchanges of violent insults.

These authorities had no explanation for Eisenhower's statement that further spy flights had been called off after the downing of the American U2 spy plane in the U.S.S.R. May 1.

Only Sunday night, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, appearing on a television interview, had defended the aerial spying as vital to free world security.

Just before Eisenhower left, informed authorities vigorously denied rumors picked up by Western diplomats that such a "retreat" might be ordered in face of Khrushchev's demands.

It appeared virtually certain Eisenhower would use the 10 days time he had set aside for the Soviet trip to visit additional countries in Asia. The White House already had served notice that regardless of the fate of Eisenhower's Soviet trip, the President definitely would go ahead with tours of Japan and Korea beginning June 20.

Khrushchev's conduct in Paris set in motion a new and intense review of what the next Soviet moves might be.

Among the faulty estimates that went out the window were those that predicted Khrushchev would never dare return to a "hard line" because the Soviet public would not stand for it.

Khrush Wrecks Parley, Demands Ike Apologize

Solons Blasting Khrushchev Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen said Monday Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev cold-bloodedly blew up the summit conference because he really didn't want to negotiate and because he wanted an excuse to keep President Eisenhower from visiting the Soviet Union.

On all sides, Republican and Democratic senators and House members deplored what they said was Khrushchev's insulting treatment of Eisenhower.

Many said they had had little advance hope the summit talks would lead to much good, and also that Khrushchev's bull-in-the-shop actions, as they described them, confirmed their misgivings.

There was at least one bit of speculation that Khrushchev acted as he did because of internal difficulties in the Soviet Union.

While voicing grave concern over what the Paris developments may mean for the future, Congress members appealed for cool-headedness and a curb on emotions.

Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.), chairman emeritus of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Khrushchev "has cruelly dashed the hopes of hundreds of millions that at least some slight progress toward a relaxation of international tensions could be made."

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said Khrushchev's ballooning of the spy plane incident "was clearly an indication that he planned to make the summit either a shambles or a forum for Soviet propaganda."

To Sen. Hiram L. Fong (R-Hawaii) it appeared the Soviet Premier "was not prepared to go to the summit conference and negotiate issues and chose this means to get out of it."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told the Senate it is clear that the Kremlin leadership was alarmed over the effect Eisenhower's warm personality would have had on the Russian people.

Sens. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) called for steadiness in the face of the new turn in the cold war.

"This is a time not to give vent to our emotions but to remain calm," Mansfield declared.

Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) said that in his judgement Khrushchev "has overplayed his hand."

The Soviet Premier "evidently had stirred up considerable fear and fright in his own country" over the spy plane, Scott opined, and "has obviously decided the most damaging rebuttal to his posturings would be the presence in Russia of President Eisenhower."

First Rocket Alarm System Nears Finish

THULE, Greenland (AP)—On a rocky Arctic hilltop the first electronic alarm station intended to warn against rockets from the Soviet Union is nearing readiness.

This Ballistic Missile Early Warning System base has been built in an air of urgency—sharpened in recent days by another spectacular demonstration of Soviet skill in technology.

This first of three BMEWS radar stations—at Thule, in Clear, Alaska, and at Fylingdales, England—will go on the air this fall and begin feeding information back to the high command in the United States, say its builders.

Today, the U.S. Air Force and the firms which built Thule's BMEWS are beginning to test the reliability of its electronic brain's calculations and predictions, using signals created within the station.

The complete system, which will scan the skies over all the approaches from the Soviet Union and her satellites, won't be working for another couple of years.

And when it does, no one can say with certainty that it will be infallible.

How is all of this time-consuming detection and identification done?

Above the buildings which house the computers and power generating plants tower four antennas—like giant bed springs, each 165 feet high, 400 feet long, each weighing 1,500 tons. When Arctic storm sheaths an antenna in ice, its weight may double. It must withstand the battering of 185 mile-per-hour gales.

These electronic eyes peer out over Greenland's ice cape, up into the frozen polar sea and up into the sky.

The information that BMEWS gathers and assesses will flash southward over multiple communications systems to Air Defense Headquarters in Colorado. From there it will go with equal speed to other high commands in Washington, in Ottawa, in NATO headquarters at Paris.

Global Alert Sounded By Defense Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — An order from the U. S. defense chief in Paris set off an alertness test of far-flung armed forces of the United States Monday.

The secret, worldwide exercise came shortly before the collapse of the Paris summit conference and raised a theory that the two developments were linked.

The Defense Department refused any direct comment on the timing of the exercise which came a few hours before the abortive start of the summit meeting.

Ordered by Gates

But Monday night the Pentagon announced that Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. in a special order from Paris set the global test in motion.

Gates went to Paris with President Eisenhower as the chief executive's principal military advisor at the summit conference.

The Pentagon announcement of Gates' order did not go into detail but strengthened belief it grew out of the summit atmosphere which was tense and gloomy even before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's harangue about the U2 spy plane incident.

Cave-In Damages Scranton Homes

SCRANTON (AP) — A cave-in, apparently caused by a mine subsidence, damaged a number of buildings and homes in West Scranton Monday. No one was injured.

Two water mains burst, sending a flow into the basement of a number of homes in the 700 block of Scranton St.

The entire area was barricaded to prevent vehicular traffic.

Tracks on the Bloomsburg division of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad were affected but the main line was free of trouble.

Fenton Blasts 'Politics' For State's Unemployed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Iver D. Fenton (R-Pa.) said Monday Democrats are playing politics with the unemployed in areas of chronic economic depression.

Fenton said in a statement that President Eisenhower's veto of the 251 million dollar area redevelopment bill last week was "no surprise to anyone."

Fenton, who voted for the 251 million dollar measure, said:

"The big city bosses in control of the New Deal crowd operating in Congress have been insisting upon legislation to set up another WPA."

He said this would not eliminate the problems of chronically distressed areas.

"Even in our own state of Pennsylvania," Fenton said, "the Democratic administration has been using this area redevelopment legislation as a smoke screen to deprive the people of the anthracite area of the Anthracite Expressway which has been approved in Washington."

Fenton said the Anthracite Expressway, which runs from Scranton to Harrisburg, would give employment to hundreds of people and "would be a far better contribution to ventually solving our economic problems than any area redevelopment legislation."

Bangor Council To Probe Tax Use For Storm Sewers

BANGOR — Bangor Borough Council, at a special session last night, agreed to give special consideration to contributing tax money toward the construction of storm sewers in the community.

This resulted from reports received from C. C. Collins and Martin Greene, financial advisors of Philadelphia.

In March, 1960, bids on the sanitary sewers were rejected due to high costs. The Borough Sewage Authority will open new bids June 8, and efforts are being made to include the construction of storm sewers in the building of the sanitary sewers.

Council previously had ruled it would not contribute any tax funds toward the construction of storm sewers and any storm sewers to be built would be paid for from revenues from sanitary sewers.

Ray Young, chairman of the Sewage Authority, stated last night that the authority will hold to a $5 frontage charge, a $30 tap fee, and an annual of $3 for sanitary sewers.

Council tentatively is considering using its share of the wage tax available in July 1961 for storm sewer construction.

Chief Burgess Quintus LaBar urged council to contribute $15,000 per year toward storm sewer construction and maintenance, and a second $15,000 per year toward street construction from its anticipated revenue of the wage tax.

Russian Leader Refers To God

PARIS (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Monday put on one of the most emotional displays of his spectacular public life.

At one point during the summit meeting the Soviet leader waved his arms above his head and declared: "As God is my witness, my hands are clean and my soul is clear."

It is rare that a leader of the Communist party calls on the Almighty.

Election May Prove Decisive

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in his summit conference statement Monday indirectly injected himself into the U.S. presidential election.

"We would think there is no better way out," he said, "than to postpone the conference of the heads of government for approximately six to eight months." In six months, President Eisenhower's successor will have been elected. In eight, the new president will be in office.

And Khrushchev said his government is deeply convinced that if not this government of the United States, then another, would understand that "there is no way out but peaceful coexistence of two systems, capitalist and Socialist."

In this, he seemed to be saying that he hopes to have better success in dealing with the next administration—regardless of who is president.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon is almost certain to be the Republican nominee for president. The Democratic candidate is still in doubt.

So the question arises: How does Khrushchev's statement affect the outlook for Nixon?

He is a member of the Eisenhower administration and associated with its policies.

Nixon had a public argument with Khrushchev in Moscow last year.

And when Washington announced that Nixon might come to Paris to sit in for Eisenhower, the Soviet leader said: "That's like sending a goat to take care of the cabbagees."

It may put the Democratic candidate in a position to argue that a change of party, under someone not associated with the present administration, would enhance the possibility of coming to an agreement with Khrushchev.

U. S. Flights Over Russia Ended May 12

PARIS (AP) — Western officials said Monday night that President Eisenhower ordered a halt to intelligence flights over the Soviet Union last Thursday.

These officials said, however, that Eisenhower decided not to make this decision public until Monday's opening session of the summit conference.

The order was one day after Eisenhower had told a news conference it was necessary for U. S. security to gather intelligence information.

Eisenhower's remarks were widely interpreted as meaning the United States would continue the flights in order to safeguard its security.

The order of Thursday, informants said, was issued to Thomas S. Gates Jr., Secretary of Defense, and Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter was informed.

Daniel Kozar, Scranton, received a $200 special act or service award for setting up a new unit in Supply Management Division in half the time estimated for the project.

Patsy Cresco, Gouldsboro, was top single-suggestion award winner, with $85. His idea to use a reinforced filament tape in place of steel strapping in certain reel shipments was estimated to save $2,291 a year.

Other winners follow: Sustained superior performance — Daniel Bythewood, East Stroudsburg, $200; Anne Pach, Scranton, $150; Joseph Boyle, Wyoming, $150; Jules Muraro, Mountainhome, $150; Robert Leonard, Moscow, $150; William Beyer, Tobyhanna, $150; Americo Fedele, Scranton, $150; Leo David, Dickson City, $150.

Incentives Of $3,755

Depot Awards Are Largest In History Of Installation

THE LARGEST award ceremony in its seven-year history kicked off Armed Forces Week activities at the Army Signal Corps depot in Tobyhanna yesterday.

Sixty employees received a total of $8,755 in awards, most of them for ideas estimated to save $17,290 yearly.

Depot Commander Col. Lester W. Kale made the presentations and thanked the employees for their "thinking, hard-working contributions towards national defense." He told the civilian workers, "You are as much a part of the Armed Forces as any soldier."

Almost every phase of the Army's Incentive Awards Program was covered by the depot ceremony. There were 40 awards for suggestions, 17 for sustained superior performance, three for special acts or service, and one for a five-year safe-driving record with Army vehicles.

Largest awards of the day, of $200 each, went to George Hesse and James Oakley, both Tobyhanna. Hesse was cited for sustained superior performance in his job as assistant post engineer, and Fire Chief Oakley for "revitalizing the Pocono Mts. Mutual Aid Fire organization."

Charge Counties Spent Liquid Taxes Illegally

HARRISBURG (AP)—Illegal expenditures totaling $102,872 from the liquid fuels tax fund in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties were reported by Aud. Gen. Charles C. Smith Monday.

Smith recommended that future state allocations for the two counties be withheld until the money is repaid.

In a report to Gov. David L. Lawrence on audits of the two county funds for the calendar years 1958 and 1959, Smith said the unauthorized spending totaled $63,720 in Lackawanna County and $39,152 in Luzerne County.

The state gives each county 1 cent from the state tax on liquid fuels. It requires that the money be used for the construction, maintenance and repair of county roads and bridges.

Smith said the audit of the $24,313 spent from the Lackawanna fund in 1958 showed two items which were not permitted by law. He said they were $3,970 for purchase of a sedan and $29,504 for payments on four bond issues.

The auditor general explained that the bond payments were not permissible because the amounts exceeded the allowable credits based on the percentage of the bond issue used for roads and bridges.

The $39,051 spent in 1959 also included $29,442 for the bond issues and a total of $803 for other purposes which were not permissible, the audit report said. These included maintenance and repair of the previous year's sedan, repair of other county vehicles, a vent for the courthouse and repairs to the Ransom County Home.

In Luzerne County, Smith said the $1,100,384 spent in 1959 included $22,928 in payments to county municipalities. He said the payments had not been approved by the State Highways Department.

Other illegal expenditures were $490 for cemetery repairs, $18 for material for the courthouse yard, and $15,706 for labor payrolls. Smith said the payroll included payments for labor for the courthouse parking lot, its annex parking lot, the Nanticoke Bridge parking lot, the Forty Fort airport, the old age home, the veterans building, and for delivering election supplies.

Macmillan Strives To Save Talks

PARIS (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan strove desperately Tuesday to revive the collapsed summit conference.

The conference boiled to an angry end Monday over a blaze of Soviet-American recriminations.

One thing was sure: President Eisenhower's June visit to the Soviet Union is off.

In his initial efforts late Monday night, Macmillan failed in a talk lasting an hour and 35 minutes to placate Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Hope For Truce

But the British said contact is being maintained with the Russians on the off chance that the breach could be healed.

Macmillan and Khrushchev were expected to confer again Tuesday.

(The Soviet news agency Tass in reporting the Khrushchev-Macmillan meeting, said "a friendly conversation took place" but gave no details.)

President Eisenhower, described as impressively sitting through Khrushchev's summit tirades over the U2 American spy plane episode and then letting his fury show later in private at the American Embassy residence, was understood to be awaiting the outcome of Macmillan's efforts.

MR. PRESIDENT

by Patrick and Vinmont

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON

Born in Berkeley, Virginia, February 9, 1773. At 18 he discontinued his study of medicine at Hampden-Sydney College, obtained a commission as ensign in the U. S. artillery and was assigned to Fort Washington. He campaigned with "Mad" Anthony Wayne against the Indians to win the Ohio valley for peaceable white settlement.

At 26 he was elected territorial delegate to Congress and a year later appointed governor of the Territory of Indiana. In 1811 he led the troops in the famed battle against the Indians at Tippecanoe. As chief in command of the army of the northwest, with rank of major general in the War of 1812, he carried the war into Canada and defeated the British and Indians in the Battle of the Thames.

He resigned from the army in 1814 and subsequently served as a member of Congress from Ohio, as a member of the Ohio Senate, United States Senator and Minister to Colombia. He was defeated for President in the election of 1836. He returned to North Bend, Ohio to work his farm but unable to make a living, he took employment as a clerk of the Hamilton County Court. From that modest post he was elected to the Presidency, 1840, the longest stride forward in political records.

Inaugurated the ninth President of the United States, March 4, 1841, he was taken ill and died in the White House one month later, aged 68.

DANIEL WEBSTER

Born in Salisbury, New Hampshire, 1782. He graduated from Dartmouth College, 1801, studied law in Boston and was admitted to the bar in 1805. Two years later he was well established in practice in Portsmouth.

At 31 he entered politics and for forty years was prominent in national affairs as a member of the United States House of Representatives and the United States Senate. Webster (pictured above) was also Secretary of State in the cabinet of three Presidents—Harrison, Tyler and Fillmore. He was a brilliant orator and possessed remarkable talents as a debater. He was opposed to the extension of slavery and his efforts on compromise measures postponed for many years the outbreak of war between the States. He died, 1852.

Thwarted repeatedly in his hope to be President, he missed his chance when he turned down the offer of the Vice Presidency in 1840. Tyler, who accepted the nomination, became President on the death of Harrison, one month after the inauguration of 1841.

MRS. WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON

Born in 1775, daughter of a New Jersey Supreme Court judge, Anna Symmes was married at twenty to Captain William Harrison. For forty-five years, she encouraged her husband's career but strongly objected to his presidential candidacy on the grounds of their age—she was 62, he, 68. Too ill to attend the inauguration, she sent her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jane Findlay Harrison. Making preparations, a month later, to go to Washington, she received word of her husband's death. She died in 1864.

IMPROVEMENT is reported in the condition of William Kaiser, who suffered paralysis of the right side several weeks ago. Water Gap folks who have been proud of Mr. Kaiser's pluck in fighting up from severe illness and trachotomy some years ago and his determination to work and be helpful despite handicaps and loss of his voice, are rooting for him to make a like courageous recovery this time. Mr. Kaiser is at his home in the Oaks here.

Mrs. Estella Bishong, who is in Stroudsburg with her son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. John Bishong, enjoyed a birthday last week.

This month has the wedding anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarkson, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Kaiser, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meixell, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Buzzard, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell.

The music of the ice-cream vending truck has the small children on the alert. The owner, Mr. Gearhart, has enlarged the property on Foxtown Hill Road he purchased this Winter from May and John Burke, who moved to New York. The enlarged building is used to store the truck and merchandise.

Distressed Areas That Qualified

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty-five Pennsylvania areas would have been eligible under the distressed areas bill vetoed by President Eisenhower.

The bill was designed to give an economic lift to urban and rural areas depressed by chronic unemployment and loss of industry. It called for 251 million dollars in economic assistance through such items as urban industrial development and public works projects.

Pennsylvania areas which would have been affected were:

Altoona, Erie, Johnstown, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre-Hazleton, York, Berwick-Bloomsburg, Butler, Clearfield-DuBois, Indiana, Kittanning-Ford City, Lewisburg, Lock Haven

SW Seniors Get Flag Shipment

NEWFOUNDLAND—A shipment of flags was received this week by the senior class at Southern Wayne Joint School, and will be distributed immediately in connection with their major activity for this year.

However, according to Thomas Pfeiffer, president of the Class of 1960, delivery on the majority of the orders has been held up by the factory.

The remaining flags will be delivered as soon as they are received here, he noted.

Meadville, New Castle, Oil City-Franklin-Titusville, Pottsville, Sayre-Athens, Towanda, Saint Marys, Sunbury-Shamokin-Mount Carmel, Uniontown-Conneautville and Williamsport.

Dear Abby

Dear Abby: I am married to a wonderful man and have a happy marriage, with the exception of one thing. My husband's first life is dead and he has the habit of referring to her as "my wife." I wonder what he thinks I am?

Now, I realize that he was married to her for more than 25 years and she is bound to come up in his conversation, but shouldn't he refer to her as "my former wife" or use her name?

HIS WIFE (LIVING)

Dear Wife: Don't sit there and stew. When he refers to his deceased wife as "my wife," remind him ever so gently that YOU are his wife. You shouldn't have to do this any more than 20 or 30 times before he changes the needle.

Dear Abby: As funeral directors we had the sad duty of caring for a beautiful little 16-month-old girl this week. She had swallowed dishwashing detergent. The ordinary powder type used in automatic dishwashers. After treating the child for two days, the doctors lost the battle to save her life.

The alarming fact about all this is that the doctor checked the supermarkets personally and found seven such powders on display. Only one carried a warning to the user and none suggested an antidote.

You have millions of readers, Abby. Won't you warn mothers to keep detergents out of their children's reach? If printed, this could save many tears. The kind I saw this morning. Thank you.

MRS. W. S. Dear Abby: Our mother is tops but she has one bad habit. She enters every contest that comes along.

About two years ago she bought so much soap (she needed the wrappers) that we are still using it. (Nobody likes it.) Another time we had noodles in all our meals for about six months straight because she needed the noodle box tops. We never have what we like to eat any more, just the stuff that comes in the cans and boxes that are running some kind of a contest. So far she hasn't won a thing. How can we stop her?

THE VICTIMS

Dear victims: Suffer in silence. Mothers have been known to have worse hobbies. If she ever gets lucky, who do you think will cash in? You, of course.

Dear Abby: I am a girl who is 15 years old. Everyone makes cracks about my being fat, but my mother says I am just right. I am five feet four. How much should I weigh to be "just right"?

FAT OR NOT

Dear Fat Or Not: You should weigh about 117 pounds.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MILESTONE—This special Sunday School Class for retarded children is believed to be the first in Monroe County. The class was organized and is being taught by Mrs. Mary Strunk at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Tannersville. Mrs. Strunk is shown above using visual teaching aids to illustrate the day's lesson. It is hoped that more of these special Sunday School Classes will be started throughout the county and elsewhere.

Medicines, if potentially fresh and properly used, can accomplish much good. For every sickness, there is always one particular medicine that is best. The problem is—which one? A wrong selection, from the thousands available, can be useless and even harmful.

That is why we sincerely advise you to avoid self-treatments and let your physician prescribe the one particular medicine his judgment decides is best for you. A prescription can do more for you because it is especially for you.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Alumni Program May 28 At East Stroudsburg State

EAST Stroudsburg State College will hold its annual Alumni Day festivities on Saturday, May 28. Several hundred alumni are expected on campus this year for the full day's program, which includes the awarding of the Alumni Association's Great Teacher Award to two distinguished retired professors of the college.

There will be frequent intervals of organ music all day, played on the new Alumni Organ, which has just been installed in the college auditorium.

Alumni women who wish to do so may compete in tennis and archery with college students. Another athletic event scheduled for the day is the baseball game with New York City Community College at two p.m.

Other Highlights

Other highlights of the day include a coffee hour during registration time in the morning, beginning at ten o'clock, the annual Alumni Dinner at noon in the college dining room, a meeting of the Alumni Association at 11 a.m., a meeting of the newly formed Ten-Year Club in the dining room immediately following the dinner, class reunions from two until four p.m., an informal reception and tea for faculty and alumni at four o'clock, and the annual Alumni Dance in the college gymnasium at 8 p.m., to the music of Bernie Parsons' orchestra.

The two retired faculty members who will be presented with the Alumni Association's Great Teacher Award are Dr. Edna L. Rosenkrans and Dr. Daniel Wolford LaRue.

The college baccalaureate service will be held on Sunday, May 22, at 3 p.m., and commencement will be held on Sunday, May 29, at the same time.

E-Burg Plans Possible Urban Moves

A DISCUSSION on urban renewal in the Borough of East Stroudsburg was held last night in the Municipal Building.

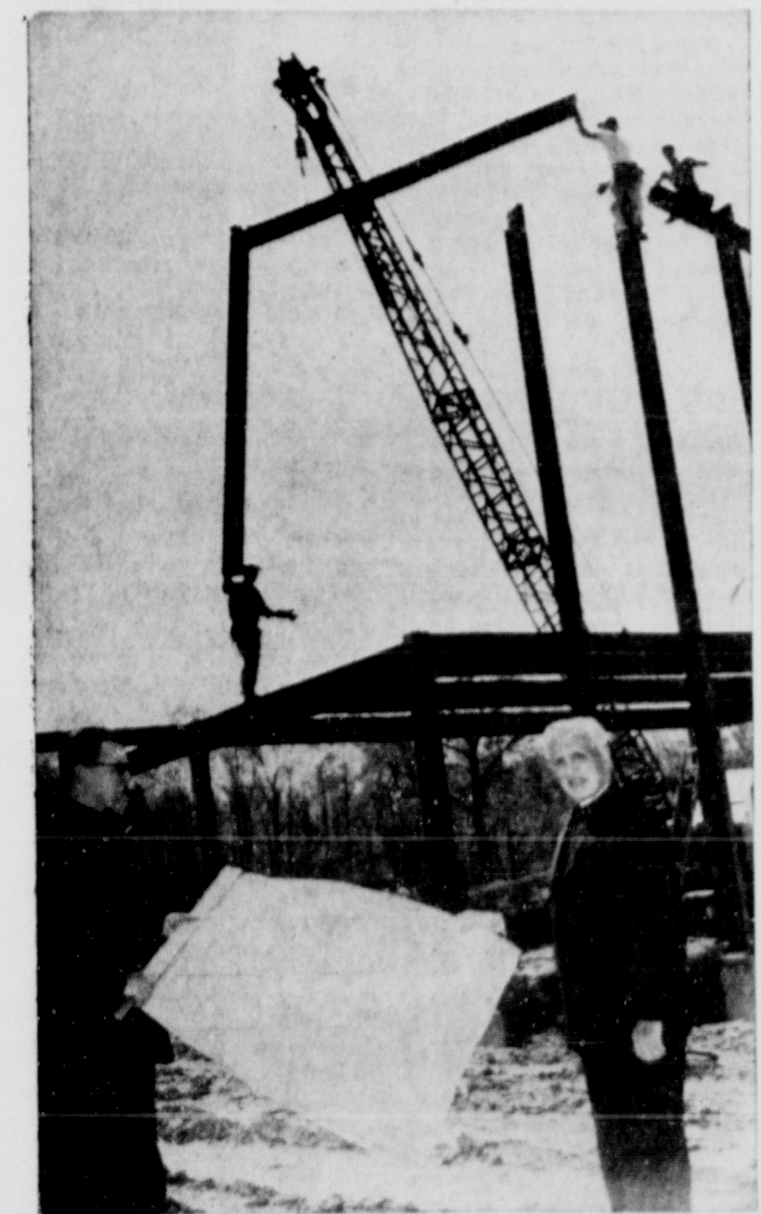

Ralph Burrows, head of the Borough's Planning Commission, headed the group which took under consideration possible urban changes within the community.

Attending the meeting were officials from State and Federal agencies, members of the Monroe County Redevelopment Authority, Planning Committee of the Exchange Club, members of the Stroud Township Planning Committee and representatives from the Monroe County Commissioners.

Elected Head Of State Bankers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Blair County banker Monday was elected president of the Pennsylvania Bankers Assn. at the opening session of the group's 66th annual convention.

William A. Huff Jr., president of the Hollidaysburg Trust Co., was named to succeed T. Allen Glenn Jr., president of the People's National Bank of Norristown. Donald Z. Wade, of the Bank of Matamoras, was named vice president, and John S. Bycroft, Jr., chairman of the McDowell Bank of Sharon, was elected treasurer.

Eastern Poconos Fete Thursday

THE 13TH ANNUAL banquet of the Eastern Pocono Resort Assn. will be held Thursday at the Oak Grove House, along Route 209 a mile east of Marshalls Creek. Alfred Baxter, banquet chairman, said all reservations have been taken and that several hundred persons would be present.

Will Preside
Lorne Bachelder, president of the association, will preside at the affair and introduce a number of invited guests. There will be no speeches, Baxter said.

The banquet is scheduled for 7 p. m. after a cocktail hour starting at 6 p. m. Dancing will follow the dinner and brief program.

Second Stage Of Census Taking Starts In County

THE SECOND stage of the census taking in the county is presently underway with the checking by census takers of those households in which the "blue form" had been left.

The form had been sent to every fourth family in each community and presently census takers are checking the results of the receipt of the forms.

On those homes where the form was filled out incompletely, or obvious errors existed, and where the form was not sent in were checked by the government officials.

It was emphasized that this work was not a re-check of the census, but only a continuance of the work.

Witnesses Parley At Newton

A CONVENTION, designed to expand the ministry of Jehovah's witnesses in Pennsylvania Circuit No. 2, will be held in the Newton High School Auditorium, May 27 to 29.

It will accommodate one-half of the congregations in the circuit.

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York, sponsors of the assembly, has arranged a program which will add emphasis to the preaching and teaching work of the New World Society of ministers.

"The program for Friday evening includes the Ministry School," said Stephen Bortlik, presiding minister of the East Stroudsburg congregation. He continued, "This school trains the ministers in Bible research and public speaking, as well as in other features of their ministry. The counsel and instruction given assists them in proving their art of teaching. Following the school, they are shown, by means of suitable demonstrations, how to become more effective in using Bible information when assisting others in their ministry."

Saturday Talk
Saturday afternoon, the witnesses will hear a discourse by Kenneth R. Savoy, district supervisor, on "Dedication and Baptism," which presents the Bible reason why dedication must precede baptism. In the evening there will be a symposium on the "Art of Teaching."

The featured speaker on the program will be Savoy, who will give the main talk on Sunday, May 29th, at 3 p. m. His subject will be, "Finding Peace in a Troubled World."

Mr. Savoy, after many years of ministerial activities, was given special training at the "Watchtower Bible School of Gilead" in South Lansing, New York.

The following local ministers will have a part during the assembly: Stephen Bortlik, William Cetnar, Carl Howell, Roger Nordmeyer, Fred Severud.

Ad Raises Eyebrows
LONDON (AP)—A want ad in the Sunday Times startled some readers: "Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong-Jones have asked us to let their Kensington residence whilst they are abroad. Everything immaculate. Rent: not so important as right tenant—say 30 guineas ($88.20) p.w."

Those who were startled had it in their mind that the Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong-Jones mentioned were Princess Margaret and her new husband. Telephone calls soon set the curious straight: the advertisers are Ronald Armstrong-Jones, the honeymooning bridegroom's father, and his third wife. They're going on vacation.

Lehigh ROTC Against Orders

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—The din was ear-splitting Sunday night as some 200 Lehigh University students demonstrated against orders of the Reserve Officer Training Corps.

They popped off firecrackers, beat tubs and trash cans—but nobody was arrested.

"We just let them blow off steam," one policeman explained. A student spokesman said the protest was against participation by the Lehigh ROTC in Tuesday's Armed Forces Day parade in Bethlehem, and also over the length of an ROTC awards ceremony Monday, which was scheduled to last an hour and a half.

Participating in ROTC is compulsory for all freshmen and sophomores.

Shrine Set For Drive For Members

SIXTY members and prospective members of the Shrine gathered at the Lake House, Saylorsburg, last night for one of a series of 11 "outpost" dinner meetings being held in advance of the June 25 ceremonial planned by Irem Temple, Wilkes-Barre.

The meeting was co-sponsored by Irem Temple and the Pocono Shrine Club. Presiding at the after-dinner program was Ralph Barnes, president of the local Shrine group.

Robbins Explains
Donald A. Robbins, membership chairman for Monroe County, explained the purpose of the gathering and introduced the Shriners and their guests.

Thomas E. Lehman, chief rabban of Irem Temple, brought greetings from Monroe County, potentate, and explained that a goal of 500 new members has been set for the June 25 ceremonial. If attained, Irem Temple will go over the 9,000-member mark, placing it among the first 15 in the country.

Hopkin T. Rowlands, oriental guide, described the advantages offered members and their families at the Irem Country Club at Dallas. Another of the privileges that go with membership in the temple, he said, is the opportunity to become a member of one of the nine uniformed units composed of Shrine members.

Noel A. Thomas, vice chairman for membership, explained that 11 Shrine clubs with 2913 members are scattered throughout the Irem Temple jurisdiction and are closely affiliated with the parent body. These clubs, among which is the Pocono Shrine Club, hold monthly meetings and semi-annual Ladies Night dinner meetings.

Hospitals Maintained
The 17 crippled children's hospitals maintained by the Shrine on the North American continent were described by James Boyer, co-chairman of the crippled children's committee, as one of the very top philanthropies in existence. He told of cases where crippled youngsters, seemingly doomed to a life of oblivion, had been rehabilitated at these hospitals without regard to race, color or religion.

William H. Huthmaker, Irem's 1960 membership chairman, said each of the Shrine's 800,000 members contributes $5 a year to the support of the hospitals. Additional monies are raised at sports events and other activities.

Dorsey Koons, temple photographer, showed colored movies of last summer's ceremonial at the Shrine Country Club and of the convention in Atlantic City. Joseph C. Doud, recorder, was introduced.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, who replaces Gen. Nathan F. Twining as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is reputed to have a remarkable memory.

This could be of extraordinary service to the nation if he would apply it to the flood of comment which in recent years has suggested that the American people are tired of squabbling among the three military services.

In putting the matter thus bluntly, we intend no disrespect for General Lemnitzer. He is an officer of great devotion and ability; he has served well as Army chief of staff. Nor is there any implication that the Army is more responsible than the Air Force and Navy for inter-service rivalry.

The three services appear to be equally to blame for carrying their interne-cine disputes to the point of making the nation's defense less effective than it might otherwise be.

It is simply that the change at the top echelon focuses attention, once again, on this problem of improving coordination among the services. Rivalry is good to the extent that it stimulates first-rate performance; it is bad whenever it narrows vision, retards development, or increases military costs.

General Lemnitzer could not, even if he would, singlehandedly bring about as much improvement in inter-service coordination as is needed. It would be a good thing, however, if he assumes his new duties with determination to exercise his great influence as JCS chairman toward that end.

Toll Gates For Cities?

On March 14, President Eisenhower transmitted to Congress a report prepared by the U. S. Department of Commerce entitled Federal Transportation Policy and Program.

In the sections dealing with urban transportation, the report makes the unbelievable recommendation that existing highway legislation should be amended "to allow charges on city highway gateways to help divert auto commuter travel to mass transport means, higher community parking fees to help similarly, diversion of such funds to pay for other transport facilities, etc."

In plain language the report was suggesting that motorists should be specially taxed in order to subsidize mass transit on the one hand . . . and in order to make more drivers use mass transit on the other.

That such an astounding proposal should be advanced by a department of the Federal Government is all but incredible.

Here we have the incongruous situation in which a department of the Federal Government with one hand is spending billions of dollars to build freeways and other arterials in urban areas, and with the other hand is devising schemes and stratagems to keep a large proportion of motorists off these facilities and, in effect, force them to use mass transit.

To be effective in achieving the goal of coercing people out of their cars and into trolleys and buses, the tolls and parking surcharges would have to be high, if not exorbitant. Their heaviest impact would be on families in the lower-income groups least able to resist the impact of such economic compulsion.

The imposition of additional tolls and parking surcharges on motorists already staggering under a $9.5 billion yearly tax load is bad enough, but the effort to force people from their chosen means of transportation to another is even worse. And the proposal to use any revenues so gained for subsidizing mass transit caps the climax of this thoroughly inequitable and unconscionable plan.

Conclusion: the Department of Commerce program for urban transportation should be promptly repudiated. Suggestion: let your Congressman know how you feel about toll gates for cities.—Minnesota Motorist.

The Pennsylvania Story

Patronage Headache

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — To the amusement of side-lined Republicans, the patronage problem has become somewhat of a netting item among Pennsylvania Democrats.

The switch-over during the past five years from Republican to Democratic job-holders within the core of the 30,000-odd plush political jobs available in both Harrisburg and outlying district offices has been too slow for many Democrats on the local level.

During the year-long 1959 legislative session state Democratic leaders were able to pacify clamoring county-level Democrats in most instances with the reasoning that wholesale changes at that time would jeopardize administrative programs.

Reluctantly and with considerable grumbling local Democratic leaders for the moment at least eased their demands.

The duration of the year-long session however caught them off guard. To patronage-hunt Democrats it was a bitter setback.

The hue and cry was and still is formidable. Understandably perhaps, it has turned into a grudge affair between some local party workhorses and top state leaders.

The enforced legislative delay during the 1960 session has only served to lark local Democrats even more. To them it amounts to no alternative other than shrugging off a loss of badly needed time in achieving a full-blown organizational set up.

The pill has been bitter to take. Although the tempo has been stepped up, it is still far too slow to smooth the ruffled feathers of local birds. Demands for faster action are beginning to swell.

All this has reached the interesting point where some of the local organizations literally have threatened to take matters in their own hands.

Just what this would entail is difficult to imagine. County units can go nowhere in the patronage direction without state headquarters approval.

Focal point of danger lies in the possibility of county organizations staging what might be termed a sit-down strike of inactivity during the November campaign — which would be something new at least!

Nevertheless it does point up the sporadic resentment that has built up on some levels in Pennsylvania Democratic circles.

There have been hotheaded demands by local Democratic organizations which while pooh-poohed officially by top Democratic leaders, actually have these very warhorses on a nervous fret.

One of the big backlogs at state headquarters has been the factional split that has plagued many a local organization since Democrats moved into the party-in-power some five years ago.

The handling of a political plum to one inevitably upsets the other. Some of the county leaders — holdovers from minority days — are highly unsatisfactory now to in-power state leaders. Yet their dumping must of necessity be a matter of strategy. The same pattern follows in patronage appointments.

The juicy state patronage treadmill is not moving with the speed many on the local level desire.

It will have to be picked up markedly if local hot-blooded Democrats are to be pulled off the warpath they are now trodding.

They want Republican scraps.

"Somebody's Been Eating My Porridge!"

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Demo Pageant

The Kennedy campaign rolls on. It is dirty pool to suggest that Kennedy wealth is playing an extraordinary role in this campaign, just as it would be unfair to say that Rockefeller money bought Nelson Rockefeller a career.

The fact is that in politics money can be a handicap because the public generally distrusts sons of rich fathers, assuming that they are playboys in disguise, and also many who would support the rich man fear the accusation of bribery.

Whereas the log cabin has disappeared from American life, the rich man still has trouble going through the eye of a needle. On the other hand, every candidate requires money and gets it where he can.

John Kennedy won West Virginia by a masterly battle not as a popularity contest but to assert the postulate that he, a Roman Catholic, could carry a state which is 95 per cent Protestant.

The reason that West Virginia was so important was that the argument had been employed, with considerable substance, that a Catholic could not be elected President of the United States. Had Kennedy failed in West Virginia, he would undoubtedly have left the race.

Some believe that Hubert Humphrey will throw his delegates to Adlai Stevenson. Those who so say have no understanding of the mechanism of a political convention. A candidate cannot sling his votes to another. That has never happened.

He releases the votes pledged to him and always deals had previously been made as to what is to be done with those votes. There are delegations pledged to candidates on the first, the third and the fourth and fifth ballots.

If John Kennedy does not take the nomination on the first ballot, he may lose votes, unless he has pledges for succeeding ballots. The popular appeal now is not the telling factor; that has been established.

What matters now is the decision of the party leaders, men of sharp practicality as to whether John Kennedy can defeat Richard Nixon. There are numerous Park Avenue Liberals all over the country who are trying hard to restore the candidacy of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Few of them quite understand the formation of delegations. Few of them are Republicans in the sense that they belong to any type of party organization. Some of the leaders in the pro-Rockefeller movement have also been Vice President Nixon as their candidate.

In a word, they are ambidextrous which in politics is like being a double agent. The Rockefeller proposition that he be chosen has never had professional support.

The Democrats discount this slight recrudescence of Rockefeller. He had his day. Instead of putting up a manly fight as John Kennedy did, Rockefeller canvassed the country, saw that he could not make it and withdrew.

He studied the polls and made no serious effort to prove them wrong. Kennedy did just that in West Virginia. In politics, the candidate who lacks the courage to make an up-standing fight is passed by.

I once witnessed Rockefeller and Kennedy speaking from the same platform on practically the same subject. Having witnessed that spectacle, I concluded that in a campaign, when a candidate must be fast in thought and speech, Kennedy could best Rockefeller with ease.

On this particular occasion, many of the politicians who vote in conventions were present and the consensus was unfavorable to Rockefeller. The Democratic politicians will take this and similar data into consideration when they choose the Democratic candidate.

Their assumption is that he will have to run against Richard Nixon who has certain advantages.

John Kennedy needs 761 votes to be nominated. It looks at this moment that he has between 550 and 600. That is not enough. Unless there is a run-away blitz for him, such as Thomas E. Dewey engineered for General Eisenhower in 1952, Kennedy does not have enough votes for the first ballot. On the other hand, he has plenty of time to fill in gaps.

The contender against Kennedy who, at this moment, figures importantly is Senator Lyndon Johnson, leader of the Democrats in the Senate, who is likely to have 500 votes. Neither John Kennedy nor Lyndon Johnson has precisely enough votes to be nominated. If neither of them receives 761 votes by, say, the third ballot, the Democratic Convention could become a surprising auction.

Interpreting The News

K Makes Most Of Incident

By J. M. Roberts

Associated Press News Analyst

THE WORLD is going to blame the United States for the Paris crisis despite Premier Nikita Khrushchev's merely seeking more time to exploit the propaganda weapon handed him through the U2 American spy plane incident.

Indeed, there was some reason for believing all along that Khrushchev, faced by an unyielding Allied position on Berlin, would aim primarily at putting the blame for continuing world tension on the West. Hope for any meaningful easements had divided long before the May Day flight.

Then Khrushchev was given the opportunity to take a position against the United States which any country would have taken under similar circumstances. But he did have a choice.

He could have passed up the U2 opportunity if his interest in lessening tensions at the summit—and ending the flights that way—had been transcendent.

It was becoming obvious by the end of last week that the United States would have to drop the flights because of the attitude of her Allies if for no other reason. To have continued them in the face of the Soviet ultimatum would have been provocation beyond the realm of calculated risk, and would have created a world storm.

If President Eisenhower had announced discontinuance of the flights before reaching Paris, Khrushchev might have been thrown off balance and the world would have accepted it as a gesture to save the conference. As it is, it appears to have come too late to prevent a break between Khrushchev and Eisenhower.

Khrushchev, as late as last week, was talking about bypassing the U2 incident at the summit and promising to negotiate there in good faith. But that would have stopped the tide of Allied and neutral criticism of the United States, something that finally proved too good for him to give up.

The Allen-Scott Report

Khrush's New Threat

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Premier Khrushchev intends to use the summit conference to hurl another truculent threat at the U.S. — this one aimed at the nuclear-powered Polaris-armed submarines two of which are due to become operational by the end of this year.

That's what President Eisenhower was told by the Central Intelligence Agency before flying to Paris.

According to CIA, Khrushchev will announce, at an opportune point during the summit deliberations, that any foreign submarine found within Soviet territorial waters will be considered hostile and "forthwith attacked and destroyed."

Russia claims jurisdiction over 12 miles of its coastal waters. The U.S. still adheres to the three-mile limit.

Also, the policy of the U.S. regarding "unidentified" vessels that come within these waters is to keep them under surveillance. Beyond that, they are not molested in any way.

Canada and Mexico proceed differently.

The Canadian navy has authority to seize or sink any submarine that fails to identify itself when ordered to do so. Mexico recently adopted the same policy.

For sometime, U.S. Navy heads also have been urging this. The Joint Chiefs of Staff have repeatedly discussed it, and it has been considered by the National Security Council top policy-making agency over which the President presides personally.

A Khrushchev threat against U.S. submarines would unquestionably lead to a reconsideration of this country's "surveillance" practice.

Since last year, Navy authorities have been convinced that the Soviet has several, or more, submarines capable of firing Polaris-type missiles with a range of 500 miles. Reputed photos of these subs indicate they are not nuclear-powered.

But whether nuclear or conventional, it is vigorous Navy contention that submarines armed with ballistic missiles are a greater menace than land-based IRBMs and ICBMs. It is pointed out that submarines can secrete themselves within a relatively few miles of major population and industrial centers, and then bombard them with cataclysmic missiles.

That is the reason Canada and Mexico now "shoot to kill" any unidentified submarine found lurking in their coastal waters.

Khrushchev himself is a major source of the CIA's warning that he may fling a new threat at the summit conference. In recent weeks, the Kremlin ruler has fulminated against U.S. missile submarines in private talks with foreign diplomats.

In one of these discussions, Khrushchev denounced Polaris subs and the U.S. in violent terms.

Also, a number of articles have appeared in Soviet military publications raising highly critical questions about these submarines. One navy magazine stressed the importance of keeping a constant check on their whereabouts.

The accuracy of the Polaris has been spectacular in its latest tests.

In one test, in which two of these IRBMs were fired within an hour, both hit within one-quarter of a mile of a target 900 miles distant. This is the first time two U.S. missiles have been fired with such accuracy in so short a time. Both tests were from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Summit Flashes — President Eisenhower will return to Washington the middle of next week, after his visit to Portugal. That's what the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has been told by the State Department officials. According to them, this unannounced plan calls for the President's "returning to Washington for several days to take care of legislative and other important matters."

They also reported he will use this interlude to brief congressional leaders on what has transpired in the Big Four deliberations. The State Department officials professed not to know whether Vice President Nixon would go to Paris during the President's absence.

Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd is making strenuous efforts to win the support of Secretary Christian Herter for a so-called "international code of conduct" that the British leader is convinced would "eliminate" such incidents as the U-2 plane furore.

Under Lloyd's proposal, nations would agree to "stop interfering in the affairs of other countries through subversion, espionage and other disruptive activities, and bargain in good faith without threats of violence."

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

Dr. David H. Keller, 55 Broad St., Stroudsburg is in the news this week.

The nationally known doctor-writer has given permission for one of his books to be translated and set up for broadcast in Malaya.

The story—a horror tale — was published in 1927 and was one of the many selected by the Malayan radio station for airing.

Incidentally Dr. Keller's book has been reprinted 10 times since '27, showing the popularity of the weird tale.

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg burgesses Ed Doran and Jess Florey had themselves a light evening for a change at Saturday's Brite Star of the Year Banquet.

Nary a talk was given to politics and Jess and Ed didn't hear a word about sewage, highways or taxes.

Saturday was one of the few days the "mayors" of our boroughs ever get by without some word dealing with their high positions.

Speaking of the Brite Star fete, brothers Jim and Gene Nicolaids did themselves proud for the second annual affair.

The food, prepared by the ladies of East Stroudsburg's Grace Lutheran Church, was superb. And the program under the hammer of Mc Joe Whalen was enlightening from start to finish.

Such personalities as Sally Ferree and Atty. Anthony Lawrence, occupied the rostrum and gave forth with some interesting yarns, dedicating their remarks to the youth present.

Beg our pardon — Al Becker, the flipper-over of grub out Snyder'sville way is not through with baseball. In fact for the record, Al is president of the Saylorburg ball club of the Pocono Mountain Baseball League.

The other talk though about Al giving up on his favorite Red Sox vine is true.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Oh & I do love you. Particularly when you get just as confused as I am. The miracle, of course, is that you don't get confused more often, with the multiplicity of meetings and the inter-locking memberships and everybody hurtling in his own particular orbit.

Mostly you avoid collisions and it goes like clockwork with wheels within meshing and disengaging and the whole thing ticking right along on schedule. But there are times—

I got sort of hysterical listening to Mrs. Ira Nagler's experience with the Girl Scout Rally with Girl Scouts all over the county and all the forces of law, order, press and radio being mobilized to round them up out of the woods and the highways and by-ways.

"Let's do this again next year," shouted one enthusiastic little Brownie above the din that was practically raising the roof at the Armory while the committee and leaders turned slightly green, matching their uniforms.

I hadn't quite recovered from that when I got the Garden Club switch in plans which became necessary when Emmie Knob landed in the hospital, which isn't funny but it does illustrate how important every cog is in any operation.

And one of the most vital cogs at Driebe's open house at Pocono Produce was the parking man. Everybody landed there just at supper time, and they were lucky to have a block-sized freezer for unexpected company — by the hundreds, that is.

But one thing you can be sure went according to Hoyle yesterday was the DAR luncheon — even to the point that every single person at the speaker's table had a flowered hat. I'm sure it wasn't by pre-arrangement but they sure looked colorful and almost over-powered the centerpiece, handsome as it was.

As I say, I do love you but will you please slow down a minute until I can catch up with you all?

Trip Off, Gardeners Meet At Y

The Monroe County Garden Club has cancelled plans for a pilgrimage to Bowman's Hill Wildflower Preserve in favor of a meeting at the YMCA on Thursday at 2:30 p.m. Members will exchange seeds and slips ready for planting now and Spring planting will be discussed in the horticulture session.

Lily of the valley, the flower of the month, will be featured in a birthday program arranged by Mrs. Paul Fetherman. House plants and flower specimens will be featured in the member participation exhibit.

Mrs. Alexander Koorbanoff, Mrs. Vernon Wallace, Mrs. Conway and Mrs. A. H. Mathieson are on the hostess committee.

Longacre Rebekahs

Tannersville — The Elsie Longacre Rebekah Lodge will meet at the lower Tannersville lodge hall on Wednesday night, May 18, at 8. All members are urged to be present to help make final plans for the turkey and ham supper to be held in the Tannersville fire house on Saturday night, May 21, from 5 to 7:30.

Pike Homemakers Dinner Held At Bushkill

Bushkill — The annual Spring Homemakers' dinner of the Pike County Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Assn., was held recently at the Bushkill Fire House. A fried chicken dinner was prepared and served by the ladies of the Bushkill Fire Auxiliary. Toastmistress was Mrs. Philip Angle, a leader of the Bushkill Homemakers Group. A talk by Miss Ann Nygaard, Assistant State Home Economics Extension Leader from Pennsylvania State University, was the first highlight. Miss Nygaard told of the new directions that the Extension Homemaking Program has taken in the past and will be taking in the future in order to adjust to the changes in the American way of life. A Fashion Show of the garments made in the clothing construction workshops was a hit with the audience. Featured in the show were Spring coats and suits, afternoon dresses, and cotton dresses for summer. Mrs. Duncan Stroyan of Milford was the narrator.

The Stroud Community Club closed the year with a banquet at High Point Inn last week when new officers were installed by Mrs. Robert Payne, second vice president of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Harold Cleaver is president; Mrs. Josef Wehe, first vice president; Mrs. Lester Katz, second vice president; Mrs. Donald Smith, secretary; and Mrs. Claude Heller, treasurer. Mrs. Wehe and Mrs. Katz will represent the club at the state convention to be held in Philadelphia May 18-20. The program "Fashions by Gregory" was presented during the social hour with Mrs. Walter Olenick as program chairman. Mrs. Lester Katz

Girl Scouts Finally Rally Despite Weather's Whims

For a while on Saturday the Girl Scout Rally was spread all over the county with 150 Scouts at Promised Land, some 300 Scouts at the East Stroudsburg Armory, and an unknown number at various points in between. But they all came together, 700 strong, for the climax of their program, filling the Armory to the bursting. It was not the Girl Scouts but the weather that couldn't make up its mind. The rally had been scheduled for Promised Land where observers reported at 8:30 a. m. that the sun was shining, and the ground was drying out. Consequently radio bulletins went out that the rally would be held as scheduled. At 9:30 it started pouring at Promised Land but by that time caravans of buses and private cars were heading for the hills. State police found some of them and redirected them to the Armory; others continued to Promised Land, where the rain stopped long enough for them to light their campfires and then came down again. But by 2 p. m. the scattered Scouts were assembled and the program, arranged by Mrs. Ira Nagler and the Juliette Low representatives went off as scheduled. There wasn't room for 300 Brownies to present their Hawaiian dance at once so they did the hula in shifts. Senior Scouts from the Mountain Neighborhood presented an Indian war dance; Stroudsburg Senior Scouts presented a dance from outer space. The East Stroudsburg Scout Band played for the Virginia Reel. Highlight of the rally was the presentation of the new 50-Star Flag, with each troop bearing one of the 50 state flags in a color ceremony led by the Hamilton Scouts. The adult Scout committee, leaders, and chauffeurs may have been a little confused but the Scouts had a wonderful time, particularly those who had a police escort through town. Colored moving pictures and slides of the rally were taken by fathers and will be available for showing to various troops.

Past Noble Grands of Rachel Brodhead Rebekah Lodge will meet at the home of Mrs. John Robinson, Fifth St., on Thursday night at 8 p.m. Representative Van D. Yetter, Jr. and Burgess Edward A. Doran will be honored guests at the anniversary celebration and representatives of other local organizations are expected to attend. Karl E. Weiler, President of the Society will act as M.C. A most cordial invitation is extended to all who enjoy real German "GE-MUETLICHEIT."

Mrs. Grant Keiper and Mrs. Joseph Mikels will be in charge of the program.

Dutch Treat Aims At Best For Next Year's Lectures

Taking a deep breath, the executive board of the Dutch Treat Club yesterday shot the works, and decided to get six of the most outstanding speakers in the country for their program next year. Tom Waring, president, in presiding at the meeting yesterday afternoon, said "There's no use striving for a mediocre goal. Let's get the best and then the membership to afford it." The best, decided by the popular vote of the membership and the board will include: Louis Untermeyer—poet, anthropologist, critic and wit. Hensleigh C. Wedgewood, a direct descendant of the English Pottery family, who will present the romance of a living tradition. Vincent Sheean, journalist, and author of "India Under Nehru" and "One Man's Appreciation of Life." Frankie Frisch, baseball's colorful immortal and raconteur. Lady Cohen, who spent five years in Uganda as the wife of the governor; and Donald J. MacNamara, dean of New York School of Criminology whose material on crime and criminology includes a discussion of "Is There a Mafia?" Pointing out that the program is a balanced one, designed to interest a wide variety of enthusiasm from pottery to sports, from international relations to poetry, from crime to government, Waring forecast a doubled membership for next year. The dinner meetings will be held the first Thursday of each month, excluding December, at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, and applications for memberships may be made now with Mrs. Eric Schuchard, secretary.

Housewives Soon Adopt Frozen Foods Developed For Commercial Use

What's cooking? Well, mountain trout, even if you don't have successful fishermen in the family. Or asparagus with hollandaise sauce, even if the bride can't boil water. Sorry, correction, she has to be able to boil water in which the plastic bag of asparagus, complete with sauce, can be dropped to cook briefly before serving a dinner for two. A forecast of the things which will appear on the family table can be made from some of the items already available for commercial establishments, and a visit to the annual open house at Pocono Produce Co. yesterday was a good place to do some sampling as well as forecasting. Last year, among the items introduced by the 36 different food manufacturers, represented at the open house, were the food combinations such as beef

State DAR Regent Guest Of Jacob Stroud Luncheon

"To love your country is not enough; we must also serve it every day," Mrs. Joseph Vallery Wright, state regent of the Pennsylvania Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution told members of Jacob Stroud Chapter and their guests at the luncheon meeting yesterday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Mrs. Wright, who has also served as national chairman of the DAR approved schools, stressed the youth program of the DAR as an important contribution to dynamic Americanism.

The good citizenship medals awarded to high school senior girls in 539 high schools in Pennsylvania; the Junior American Citizens Clubs, open to all boys and girls; the Children of the American Revolution to train future DAR members; the flag code committee to promote correct use of the flag; and manual for citizenship distributed to new citizens seeking naturalization; the preservation of historical sites are among the highlights of the program she listed.

She also stressed the DAR approved schools in the southern mountains and announced the Pennsylvania project to set up an endowment fund for the maintenance of the Health House at Tomass, erected by the Pennsylvania chapters.

Mrs. W. E. Andrew, regent, presided at the luncheon, introducing the guests who included Mrs. John Llewellyn, Scranton City Chapter; Mrs. J. B. Jones, George Herbert, Liberty Bell Chapter; Mrs. Stanley Walborn, chairman of press relations; Mrs. William Tompkins, former vice president General; Mrs. O. E. Kepworth, Dial Rock Chapter, and the members of their chapters who accompanied them.

Also introduced were local state chairmen: Mrs. Harold C. Edwards, chairman of the Pennsylvania luncheon; and Mrs. Howard Flagler Jr., and Mrs. George Marsh.

Mrs. T. Manning Curtis, who introduced the state regent, and Mrs. Dale Learn, vice regent, were also seated at the head table. Mrs. Harry Kresge presented the musical portion of the program which featured three songs by Robert Wolbert: "My Lady Walks in Loveliness," "I Love Life" and "Without a Song." Mrs. Wolbert was his accompanist.

Mrs. Andrew also urged members to support the Gettysburg Battlefield preservation drive and displayed a deed sent to the chapter for its contribution. She announced invitations to attend the Scranton City Chapter luncheon on May 26 and the Tunkhannock chapter luncheon on June 11 with reservations to be made with Mrs. Joseph Yutz.

Mrs. Andrew called a meeting of the executive board for May 24 at 7:30 at her home. Material on civil defense was distributed at the meeting by Mrs. Howard R. Flagler, Jr., state chairman of civil defense, who announced a visit of a mobile shelter here in August.

Decorate Yard With Rose Trellis

ANYONE who likes to decorate with roses will be interested in today's pattern. It tells how to build a garden trellis that can be used in many different ways.

When placed over a garden gate, or entrance door it provides a bower of color and fragrance that adds charm to your home.

The pattern offered below simplifies construction. The list of materials tells what to buy, where and when to use each piece of lumber.

Since no special tools or skill are required, everyone who follows the pattern method of construction should be successful.

Send 50 cents in coin, check or money order for Garden Trellis, Pattern No. 304, to The Daily Record, P.O. Box 215, Pleasantville, New York. Send additional 35 cents for catalog illustrating over 300 other home improvement and gift items. Please send 25 cents for First Class Mail.

TWO COATS of shellac brushed on a new wire clothes line and allowed to dry thoroughly will prevent rust marks on drying laundry.

USE YOUR floor polisher scrubber to buff wax between waxings. It only restores luster. It saves on wax.

DO NOT have excess moisture in the house from cooking or washing when doing interior painting.

This can cause failure of the paint job.

SUCTION cups glued to the bottom of a small radio will prevent the radio from slipping and scratching surfaces.

A RUBBER jar ring glued to the bottom of your pet's feeding dish will keep the dish from slipping.

New Jersey Has Company But No Canal

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey state budget contains a four-line request for $49,393 for a canal company that has no canal.

The Morris Canal Banking Co. made a bundle for its operators a century ago, hauling coal and produce across northern New Jersey.

Then railroad competition brought bankruptcy. The company was state chartered, so the state gradually acquired most of its property.

The annual budget item is for upkeep of lakes properties, bath-houses and other recreational facilities. Parking, bathing and other public fees today bring in almost as much money as is spent in upkeep.

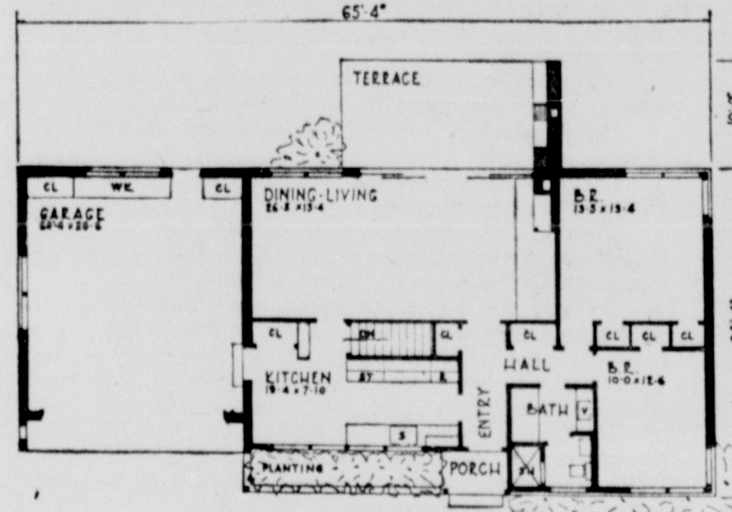

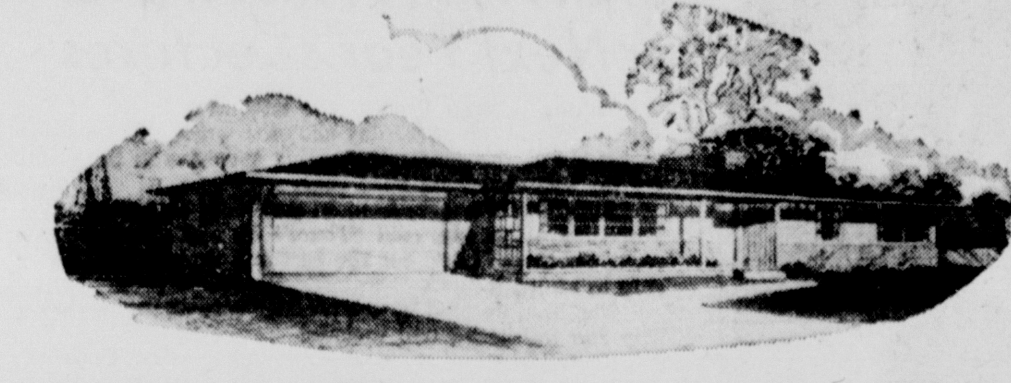

Says Abram M. Vermeulen, state budget director:

"It's a canal company without a canal, but doing far better than it did during most of the years when it had a canal."

IF YOU fasten a length of chain to the end of your clothes line it is easier to tighten the line as it becomes slack. All that is necessary is to place the next link of the chain over the hook.

TO SEE how paint will look when dry, brush a stroke or two on a white ink blotter.

Parade of Homes

H-250 Large Sleeping Areas In Attractive Style

PERFECTLY suited for the three or four member family because of its large sleeping areas, is this attractive ranch style home with a terrace for "outdoor living". Exterior treatment is of ledgerock, wood siding and brick trim.

Excellent circulation has been planned throughout this design, a feature too often sacrificed in this day of cutting and minimizing on room dimensions.

The center entry leads easily to kitchen, living room and bedrooms. It contains a guest closet and is convenient to the nearby two compartment bathroom with large built-in vanity and stall shower.

The homemaker will appreciate the long kitchen; providing an abundance of cabinet and counter space, breakfast nook and large utility closet near side exit to garage.

Windows in the kitchen and breakfast nook, not only makes this area bright and cheerful, but also permits the busy housewife to keep a watchful eye on the youngsters.

To the rear of home is the spacious living-dining combination with corner fire-place. Highlighting this area are sliding glass doors and window walls opening to the terrace.

Both areas have the advantage of spaciousness and is ideal for entertaining, with the rear terrace virtually an outdoor dining area. There's no doubt many an evening meal will be served here during the warm summer months.

The sleeping quarters have been effectively zoned away from the living area by a side hall. Generous closet space has been provided here, with the rear bedroom featuring twin wardrobe closets.

Plenty of window area services the bedrooms, but all are placed up high for privacy and easy furniture arrangement.

Plans call for a full basement, an attached two-car garage, which you will note has a built-in work bench for Dad and extra storage space too.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. The plan contains 1,244 square feet, 24.143 cubic feet and 464 square feet for the garage. Your builder or material supplier can give you the cost per square or cubic foot in your area.

"Complete Building Plans, including Detail Sheet, Material List and Specification Guide for Design No. H-250 may be purchased for $9.75 for first set; two for $18.25; three for $26.25; or four for $33.75. You may also purchase The Daily Record Plan Book showing 71 designs for 75 cents postpaid. Address all questions and orders to HOMOGRAF Home Plan Dept. The Daily Record, Warren, Michigan."

Questions And Answers Given For The Handyman

By Andy Lang (AP Newsfeatures)

QUESTION: Please, please straighten out something that has annoyed me for a long time. I've had it explained to me a couple of times, but always forget it. Now I'd like to see it in a newspaper, where I can clip it out and keep it. When I go to a lumber yard to buy fir plywood the panels have letters on them. What do these letters mean?

Answer: The letters designate the grades of the plywood—and the grades, in effect mean the appearance of the outside veneers. A grade means an almost perfect veneer, B excellent and C fair. D contains a considerable number of knotholes and other are all equally strong. If you were building a cabinet for the living room, you might want a panel with two faces. If only one side would show, you might get a panel with one A face and C or D. Where the plywood is to be used for something like floor underlayment or roof sheathing, it would be a waste of money to get paneling with A or B faces. In addition to grades, plywood comes in two types—interior and exterior. The interior has moisture-resistant glue between the plys, the exterior has water-proof glue. There is still another designation, marine plywood, which is simply exterior plywood with a special core. (Questions of general interest will be answered in this column. However, Lang can not undertake individual correspondence.)

Largest Tent Circus To Hit S-Burg

WHEN THE Cristian Bros. bring their three-ring circus to Stroudsburg on May 23 for two performances, the public will have the opportunity to view the largest tented circus in the world. The show will display some 40 acts presented by nearly 100 performers.

Among the many features to be seen will be the internationally famous Cristian family of bareback riders, featuring Lucio Cristian who is considered the greatest riding clown of all times. Among circus performers he is known as a "Circus man's performer."

Other acts on the show never miss the opportunity to watch him work, as he is definitely unpredictable. No one, not even himself knows what he will do next in order to create a laugh. Yet this buffoonery is based on a solid foundation of down to earth ability acquired from a lifetime of hard training.

Among the other features will be the recently imported Renaults, who bring back to the circus for the first time in many decades what is known as The Loop, where a group of performers running down a steep incline 100 feet long at breakneck speed leap through hoops of fire over the backs of a herd of elephants doing single and double somersaults.

Among the aerial presentation working high in the air, will be the Flying Wards. These youngsters represent the fourth generation of this famous family of flyers. Miss Delilah another outstanding aerialist is featured high over the center ring with the Hollywood Ballet. Bill Orwell's Clod Swing takes him so high that his feet brush the canvas at the peak of the Big Top. His breakaway finish is a flirtation with death.

Seals, Chimpanzees
Among the many ground acts will be seen Tibors Seals, Kon-yot's educated Chimpanzees, clowns of the jungle which do everything but talk, and Alberto Zoppe's Doberman Pinschers, an unusual dog act.
There will be clowns galore, two herds of elephants, a complete menagerie with rhinoceros, hippopotamus, giraffe, lions, tigers, monkeys, etc. Performances are scheduled for 3:45 and 8 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from members of the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club.

Bad Check Passers Seen In Vicinity

BOGUS check passers are active in the Lehigh Valley, it was reported during the weekend, and all merchants are warned to be on the alert for any unknown persons attempting to pass worthless checks.

The checks causing the trouble are drawn on the board of education of Carroll County, Maryland, and the Union Bank of Westminster.

Each check, worthless thus far, has been numbered 40,097 and has been made in the amount of $89.50.
Two names — Wilson Davis or James C. Epps — have been used by the passer to date, and he is described as being between the ages of 28 and 32, black hair, brown eyes and of slender build.
All area merchants are urged by authorities to check into the background of any persons trying to pass the checks mentioned above.

Pocono Art Center Is Non-Profit

THE Pocono Art Center has been informed by the U. S. Treasury Dept. that it is now recognized as a non-profit organization set up for educational purposes, and therefore monies donated to it may be legally deductible from income taxes by the donors.
This was disclosed by David Mazer, chairman of the membership committee, who stated that it is gratifying to have this certification at this time, when a membership drive for the second year is about to start, and when a stimulating summer program is in the planning stage.

Details of classes and lectures will be published shortly, with a special event planned for Saturday night, May 28.

Philly Seaport Costs State Too Much, Rural Leaders Say

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia is a big seaport surrounded by expensive problems in the eyes of Sen. Edward J. Kessler and David M. Turner, publisher of the Towanda Daily Review.

Mayor Richardson Dilworth, on the other hand, thinks rural areas have an unbreakable grip on the State Legislature and have no inclination to give more state funds to the big cities than necessary.

The three expressed their views at the sixth and last session of the 14th annual Bulletin Forum.

Kessler, of rural Lancaster County, said he believes the Legislature's responsibility to Philadelphia is to make "it possible for the city to operate" — not to actually operate the city.

Turner conceded that Pennsylvania's two port cities — Philadelphia and Erie—play a major role in all Pennsylvania industry. But he said the big cities are inclined to forget there is "a lot of rural country with a lot of problems" in between.

Dilworth argued that more money must be appropriated for Philadelphia if the country needs it to transfer manufactured goods, dairy products and timber.

"If you expect a goose to produce golden eggs," he said, "you had better feed it a little."

Dilworth, a Democrat, acknowledged that Kessler, a Republican, had helped pass an appropriation of one million dollars to improve the port. He added, however, that the city needs 103 million dollars for the port over the next 10 years.

Aside from port needs, Dilworth said, there is a little rural interest in spending money on Philadelphia's many problems. Turner said there was "quite a breach" between city and country. He added:

"The rural people are not in a fighting mood about this except at the legislative level."

But he said he was hopeful that city and country would understand each other better as the state's two big metropolises — Philadelphia and Pittsburgh — expand into now-rural areas.

He added that he didn't think pouring money into the port of Philadelphia would solve rural unemployment problems.

Schoonover Paces S-Burg To Victory

BILL SCHOONOVER's pitching and base running yesterday resulted in a 7-6 win for Stroud Union High School football team on Gordon Giffels Field.

With the score tied 6-6 in the bottom of the seventh, Schoonover led off by drawing a walk off Hilligas, the losing pitcher. He then stole second and third and scored as Leo Frailey bounced to the third baseman and beat the throw to first for an infield single.

3-1 Record

Schoonover came in to pitch in the fifth inning, after playing shortstop for the first four frames. He allowed three hits and three runs, two of them earned. It was his third win of the year against one loss.

Stroud Union exploded for six runs in the third inning, after Emmas took a 1-0 lead in the first. Emmas then scored two in the fourth and three in the sixth to tie it.

Maryland Back Inked By 'Skins

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Redskins Monday signed Ed Vereb, former University of Maryland halfback.

Vereb, who was the Redskins' No. 1 draft pick in 1956, has played football the past three years with Vancouver in the Canadian League, where he gained all-pro ranking. Vancouver released Vereb so that he could continue graduate study at Maryland and could at the same time carry on his professional football career with the Redskins.

During his college days, Vereb was one of the greatest offensive backs to ever play for Maryland. In 1955, his senior year, he not only led the Maryland team in scoring with 16 touchdowns but paced the Atlantic Coast Conference as well.

Police Break Up Ducat Seekers

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Mounted policemen Monday broke up a mad scramble of soccer fans trying to get tickets for Wednesday's European cup final between Real Madrid and Eintracht of Frankfurt.

Thousands of fans who had lined up before dawn at Hampden Park Stadium, tried to rush a police barrier.

Policemen were knocked over. Several men and women suffered minor injuries.

The scene was the climax of mounting excitement in this industrial city on the Clyde, where soccer is regarded as a religion. The arrival of the two teams over the weekend has sent enthusiasm up to boiling point.

Eastburg's Gartner End In 4th Spot

WILLARD Woodring, of Hazleton High School, won the District 11 Golf Championship yesterday, shooting a 79 to beat out 46 schoolboy linksmen at Glen Brook Country Club.

Woodring garnered a 38 on the first nine and a 41 on the second to top the best of the area schoolboys in a runoff which leads to the state championship at Penn State University later in the month.

Roland Gartner, of East Stroudsburg High, placed fourth in the runoffs, coming in with a 87.

Par for the 18-hole Glen Brook course is 72.

Winds Up 2nd

George Somich of Allentown was second with a 82, via 43-39 totals. In third place came Roger Stern of Parkland with 84.

The other two qualifiers for the state runoffs were David Schueck of Emmaus and Stanley Szczecina of Summit Hill with 88s each.

In Charge

Ralph Burrows of East Stroudsburg High, chairman of District 11 of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Association, was in charge of the tournament.

Assisting was John Kupiec, of Stroudsburg High School.

The leaders:

ESSC Splits Pair Of Net Events

EAST Stroudsburg State College split a pair of tennis matches over the weekend, losing to Trenton 5-4 Friday and topping New Paltz (N.Y.) 4-2 Saturday.

It was the first loss in seven outings for the New Yorkers. Rain forced postponement of the doubles, with the Warriors leading in all three tandem events.

Doubles Win

Ron Faust, Gene Fulton, Ken Benner and the doubles team of Fulton and Marty Altschuler scored the Warriors' points against Trenton.

Faust avenged an early defeat by Bob Scheby by tripping the Jersey star 6-4, 6-1.

Bill Salmi, Benner, Fulton and Bob Sweeney accounted for East Stroudsburg's points against New Paltz. It was Sweeney's first win of the season.

'500' Owners Seek Combos

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The annual car-hopping period started Monday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where drivers and car owners hunted better combinations for next weekend's final qualifications for the 44th 500-mile race May 30.

Twenty-two cars were qualified last weekend, leaving only 11 spots for about 40 other cars.

The Bardahl Specials, originally assigned to veterans Paul Russo and Duane Carter, Monday had rookie Cotton Farmer, Fort Worth, Texas, and Chuck Arnold, Stamford, Conn., who started for the first time last year and finished 15th.

Russo, Fortville, Ind., shifted to the Robbins Special originally listed for Dick Rathmann, Roselle, Ill., who qualified another Robbins car Saturday. Carter, Indianapolis, moved into the car Jack Ensley of Indianapolis had entered with himself as driver.

The original program will be chopped up further this week as driver-car combinations fail to reach the anticipated minimum qualifying speed of around 143 m.p.h.

Bowling Highlights

DAILY RECORD edged Ballantine by 109 pins to win the league championship in a six game roll-off.

The Record won the first three games by 225 pins but lost the second triple by 116.

Messer of the Record had the high match in the first series, a 587 and Hartman of Ballantine rolled the top single, 213.

Hartman won both awards in the second night's rolling, taking the match mark with 563 and the top single with 265.

Louis Promoting Inge-Floyd Go

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Lewis, former heavyweight boxing champion, has joined the promotion staff for the June 20 title fight at the Polo Grounds, between champion Ingemar Johansson and ex-champ Floyd Patterson. Lewis will be at Patterson's Newton, Conn., camp for a closed-session workout with the challenger.

Jordan Loses

BALTIMORE (AP)—Welterweight champion Don Jordan lost a non-title 10-round decision Monday night to Candy McFarland of Philadelphia.

Aly's Horses To Race May 22

PARIS (AP)—Two horses from Prince Aly Khan's stable will resume racing May 22, the 1-11 prime's trainer Alec Head announced Monday.

The trainer said no decision regarding the future of the famed stable can be made for the present but that its operation would continue until the end of the Paris season.

Johansson Rides Horses

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—Horseback riding and golf replaced sparring and bag punching for Ingemar Johansson Monday as the heavyweight champion took a brief respite from preparation for his title defense against Floyd Patterson at the Polo Grounds June 20.

It followed his usual Monday pattern of rest and recreation. After a leisurely horseback ride through the woods, he played nine holes of golf, and spent the remainder of the day visiting with friends.

Johansson will resume his heavy work Tuesday.

Kuenn And Colavito Deal Shows Harvey Pacesetter

NEW YORK (AP)—The first monthly return is in on the most discussed baseball player trade of 1960 and the figures so far point to a decision for Harvey Kuenn over Rocky Colavito and vindication for Frank Lane, Cleveland's general manager.

Lane was verbally spanked by many Cleveland fans April 17 for dealing Colavito, the American League home run king, to Detroit for Kuenn, the batting champion.

However, after a month in their new uniforms, Kuenn shows a batting average of .319 while Colavito is wallowing at .175. Colavito has been held hitless in 10 of Detroit's 21 games. He has only three hits in the last 25 times at bat, a .120 pace.

Kuenn has 23 safeties in 72 at bats. Colavito has 14 hits in 80 trips. Rocky does hold the edge where expected—in home runs and runs batted in. He has four homers, including a game-winner against Washington on May 10, and 11 RBI. Kuenn's first homer won Sunday's nightcap against the Chicago White Sox, Harvey has seven RBI.

The Indians are in a virtual tie with New York for third place with a 13-10 record. Detroit, with a 9-12 mark, is sixth.

Sugar Ray Fails To Show Up

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson failed to show up Monday night for a scheduled 10-round bout in Memorial Stadium against Pedro Gonzales of Rankin, Pa.

In New York, Robinson's wife, Edna Mae, said she couldn't understand why Sugar Ray didn't appear as scheduled.

"He had to break an engagement here to make the fight," she said. "I haven't heard from him, but I'm certain there was some extenuating circumstances connected with it."

The Maryland State Athletic Commission ordered the former Middleweight champion and his manager, George Gainford, to appear for a hearing next Thursday or Friday.

Baseball Owners To Hold Own 'Summit' Conference

CHICAGO (AP)—The 16 owners of major league baseball clubs will hold their own "summit meeting" Tuesday to discuss pending legislation in Congress, the Continental League and other problems.

The special meeting of the top brass comes only two days before the Senate's Antitrust Subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), opens hearings on a bill to limit farm operations of major league teams.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said he had suggested the meeting to John W. Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, as early as last fall. He said the owners had hoped to get together for a special session in Florida in March but were not able to agree on a date.

"I don't know what will come out of the meeting," said Frick before leaving New York. "The legislation, pending before Congress will, of course, be discussed."

Frick recently called the Kefauver bill "vicious, discriminatory and disastrous" and labeled it "absolutely unacceptable."

The commissioner will attend Tuesday's meeting. Frick and others will testify later in the week at Washington along with Branch Rickey, president of the Cincinnati Reds, proposed third major league.

The proposed Kefauver bill would curb farm operations of major league teams by limiting to 100 the number of players any one club might control. Of the 100, all but 40 would be subject each year to an unlimited draft by all other clubs, including the new Continental League. A major league player drafted by two or more clubs could pick the one he wanted to join.

The primary purpose, however, would be to provide limited anti-trust exemptions for pro baseball, football, hockey and basketball. The Continental League has backed the bill. The only club owner in the majors to go on record in favor of it is Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs.

ESSC Raps Kutztown Nine, 14-3

EAST Stroudsburg State College cashed in 14 hits for as many runs and an easy 14-3 victory over Kutztown State College in a game played yesterday on the winner's field.

Hooks Barrow held the Golden Avalanche to five hits in the first seven innings. Lewis, who finished up for the Warriors, yielded one run, but no hits in the final frame. The game was called because of darkness after eight innings.

Big Sixth

East Stroudsburg scored four runs in a big sixth inning and added clusters of three in the fourth and eighth to win easily. Kutztown's big inning was the fifth when they scored twice.

Wray, Snyder, Stockholm and Miller with two hits each paced the Warriors. One of Stockholm's hits was a home run.

Quill Charges PRR Strike May Be Before Deadline

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—President Michael J. Quill said Monday his Transport Workers Union might strike the Pennsylvania Railroad before the June 6 deadline. He indicated a decision might come soon.

Here to address a strike which would idle more than 25,000 non-operating employees from New York to St. Louis, Quill conferred with fellow union leaders. They were to decide whether the president's council of the TWU's railroad division should be convened to consider an earlier walkout.

Quill, through a spokesman, said Monday morning that nothing definite had been decided.

A little later, before meeting with Mayor Richardson Dilworth about another matter, Quill commented only that "I am trying to knock some sense into the situation."

From noon on Quill and his associates were inaccessible to newsmen who sought not only to learn whether the strike deadline was to be advanced, but to ask Quill's comment on a union development reported from Steubenville, Ohio.

Local 3008 called an uninterrupted meeting of employees at Mingo Junction, Ohio, and Weirton, W. Va. A spokesman for the PR said that out of 173 scheduled to work at the two places only 48 reported for duty. The spokesman added that operations were normal, supervisory personnel helping to keep it so.

The dispute, as explained by the spokesman, was over work assignments. The local has 300 members—car inspectors, car repairmen, electricians, helpers and laborers.

Work rules, especially the scope rule which defines job classifications, are the chief issue in a dispute of three years standing, climaxed last week by Quill's statement that a strike was inevitable "because this is the end of the line."

The TWU says it cannot compromise the work rules question lest its members be dissatisfied by automation and frequent furloughing.

As for wages, the union seeks a 35-cent-an-hour increase. Present rates, under a contract continued after the Nov. 1 expiration, are $2.17 to $2.65 an hour.

Retiring Debentures

By William A. Doyle
Q. I own some debentures. They will mature in 1975 and have a current market value of about 82. The company has the right to retire a certain portion of the outstanding debentures every year, prior to July 1, through the "sinking fund." The call price this year will be 102.

Will the company pick the bonds to be redeemed each year by lot, sort of in a raffle? Or does the company have the privilege to buy them in the open market?

A. That depends on the terms of the issue of debentures. These terms vary quite a bit. However, they are always explained in the indenture covering the issue and, usually, are printed on the debentures.

When a company issues securities with a sinking-fund provision, the company pledges to put aside a certain amount of money each year. That money, the "sinking fund," is used to retire some of the securities — normally at fixed intervals, such as once or twice a year.

The sinking fund might be operated by the company, or it might be operated by a trustee. In many cases, the terms of the issue do provide that the securities to be retired through the sinking fund may be purchased in the open market. If there is such a provision, the operators of the sinking fund would naturally buy the securities in the open market if the securities are available there at less than the call price.

If there is no such provision or if the securities are trading in the open market at higher than the call price, the securities to be retired would be chosen by lot—or, as you put it, "sort of a raffle."

There is still one other possibility. In some cases, the securities to be retired through the sinking fund might be acquired by "tender." Under that method, the owners of the securities are invited to tender the securities to the operator of the sinking fund for retirement. The amount of securities to be retired and the terms would be spelled out at the time tenders are invited.

Q. Brokers often use the expression "triple top." That sounds more like a formation on a football field than a financial term. Can you explain it?

A. It means that stock prices, as measured by one of the averages or indexes (Dow-Jones, Standard & Poor, etc.) rose to the same high point — but no higher — on three separate occasions.

Here's one of the cases where the financial community would be smart to adopt professional football's rule of free substitution — of understandable language to replace gobbledygook.

Q. Last December, the Securities and Exchange Commission ordered a suspension in trading in Skiatron Electronics Television stock. That was five months ago. There has been no additional word from the SEC. Shouldn't the commission at least make a periodic announcement that the case is still under investigation?

A. The SEC has done just that. Every 10 days, the commission has announced a further suspension in trading in this stock. That's the standard procedure for cases under investigation.
